

Gail Smith has been selected as the 2018 recipient of the Marg Campbell Integrity in Leadership Award. Gail strongly embodies the qualities of honesty, trustworthiness, mentorship, client centredness, openness, self-awareness, humility and humour that comprise integrity in leadership. She is seen as a role model for the next generation of leaders and demonstrates deep passion for the work.

Gail is the Director of Inpatient and Crisis Services at Youthdale Treatment Centres. She has enjoyed a long and accomplished career in children's mental health that started at Youthdale after receiving degrees in Fine Arts and Education. She left for a period of time to work at York University as a research coordinator and at Jerome D. Diamond Adolescent Centre as a manager but returned to Youthdale in 1998 where she's remained. She's worked in many of Youthdale's programs including residential, day treatment and intake and now in her current area of inpatient crisis services.

Congratulations Gail!
